COMPANY A OF M STREET HIGH SCHOOL, WINNERS OF THE PRIZE FLAG.

RECEPTION FOR COMPANY A AT

M STREET SCHOOL

A reception was tendered Company A of the M Street High School, which won the competitive drill of the separate battalion of High School Cadets last Friday afternoon at American League Park, by the teachers and young girls of the school, which indicated that victory had been anticipated. Preparations were made during the day and the boys were provided with a feast, which was followed by dancing.

The company, in command of Capt. John R. Pinkett, marched from the park to the school, where the members were received by a committee of the girls and escorted to the large armory, where the refresh ments were served. Although the prize was von by Company A, the boys of Company B. who represented the same school, were not forgotten, being invited to participate in the festivities. Capt. H. Deear and the other members of Company B displayed

POLITICS IN VIRGINIA

LIVELY CONTESTS IN SOME DIS-TRICTS-LOVING'S TRIAL.

Political observers are watching the struggle now on in the Lynchburg senatorial Thomas. Both are former members of the state senate, and both are making a desperate fight to again represent the people. Mr. Thomas has announced that he will oppose the re-election of Senator Daniel to the United States Senate upon the expira-tion of his present term. Mr. Halsey is a relative and supporter of Senator Daniel and is equally as pronounced in his avowal of support of the "Lame Lion of Lynchburg." The antagonism of Mr. Thomas is said to be due to the criticism of William Jennings Bryan by the senator from Virginia, Senator Daniel having commented on the speech of Mr. Bryan at New York on his return to the United States from a tour of the world, when he took position on the question of government control of the railroads. Senator Thomas admires the position and views of the New York and New braskan. Mr. Halsey does not discuss that phase of the affair, and contents himself with saying that he will vote for the relection of Senator Daniel. In that way Senator Daniel is the issue in the campaign, and in that district alone is there an issue of any sort between democrats, Of course, Senator Daniel is anxious that his own district shall not be opposed to him when the time comes for his election, and the defeat of the candidates friendly to his return to the federal Senate might in-

Conflicting reports are coming here from Conflicting reports are coming here from the eighth congressional district. The fight for the nomination is becoming more and more exciting. Each of the four candidates insists that he will win, and that the others are engaged in a desperate effort to prevent being the last man in the running. Neither candidate will concede that the other has a ghost of a show. Friends of the aspirants are talking the same way. There is some waging of money on the contest, and each man has his following in his own section. The political element here inclines to the tion. It is no secret that Mr. Carlin is the one candidate who stands "ace high" with the present political regime in Virginia, all the others being aligned with the faction which went out of power when Gov. Mon-tague laid down the cares of office. So far as can be ascertained none of the officials of the state is taking any part in the empaign, but it is accepted as a fact that if Gov. Swanson or Senator Martin had a vote it would go to the gentleman from Alexandria.

Kennedy Again to the Front.

John Pendleton Kennedy, the state librarian, is again in the public eye. This time, according to members of the library class studying under him, he has more than one complaint laid at his door. The memhers of the class, as students receiving no pay for their work (in the state library) classified and indexed a private library.

The gentleman for whom the work was done paid the bill. The ladies thought they were to receive the money. Kennedy said that it should be used for the purpose of taking the class to Asheville to attend the sessions of the American Library Association. The ladies were told to con-ribute about $15 each to cover the expenses of the trip. They demurred, and Kennedy turned the matter over to the board. The members of the class will have to make up $25 to pay for typewriting done for them in connection with the work. All the employes of the library testified against Kennedy when the recent investi-gations were under way. When he left for there are many who think that the trial should take place at or near the scene of the crime. The jury will have to come from some remote section if there is no change of venue. There is good ground for believing that the case will go to either one of three places—Roanoke, Petersburg or Danville. If that is done, the judge of the corporation court of the city in which the trial is held will likely preside. It is and Minister von Swinderen of The Nether

It is not known if the Seaboard is to join in the fight now on against the commission by the roads of the state. It may be that the road will follow the course here that it took in North Caroling file a protest and put the rates thesis on "The Simulfaneous Measurement of the Capacity and Power Factor of Con-Carolina—file a protest and put the rates into effect until decided by the courts. It is hardly probable that the rates from this city to Washington over the Seaboard will be affected, as the trains are carried over the tracks of the Richmond, Fred ericksburg and Potomac and the Washing ton Southern, and the tickets are sold by the agent of the older line. So there is no room to believe that one will be able to get a 2-cent a mile ride over the Seaboard from Washington to the south.

'The Virginia Pythian Grand Ledge is to meet in Lynchburg Tuesday for a session of three days. The order is growing in the state, there being several new lodges. On Monday night the members of Beni-Mora Temple, D. O. K. K., will go to Lynchburg and confer the degrees on a large class of candidates. There will be a series of banquets and entertainments in honor of the visitors. The endowment rank of the order is very strong in the state, and is growing by rapid strkies.

Disposition of Valuable Estate, pecial Correspondence of The Star.

FREDERICKSBURG, Va., May 25, 1907. The will of the late Capt. C. Wistar Wallace has been probated in the corporation court of this city, with Judge A. W. Walace, J. S. and .H. L. Wallace executors, without bond. His estate is valued at between $180,000 and $190,000. He left $15,000 to the city of Fredericksburg for the erection of a public library, to be known as the Wallace library, provided that the city shall execute such legal papers as shall bind it to establish the library within three years from the date of his death as a permanent institution of the city, and to properly maintain the same and to expend not exceeding $5,000 for a lot and the erection of a suitable building on same, the residue to be used in purchasing books for the library as may be selected by a committee of five, chosen by the presidents of Richmond College, Randolph-Macon College, Washington and Lee College and the University of Virginia. One hundred and twenty-two shares of stock in the Fredericksburg National Bank is left to his brother, Judge A. W. Wallace, at the latter's death Judge A. W. COMMITTEE MAKING PLANS FOR COMPLAINED OF FATIGUE AND THEN PASSED AWAY.

> PARIS, May 25.-Theodore Tilton died in this city this afternoon. He had been unconscious for hours before he passed away. Mr. Tilton's last illness was very brief. Wednesday he took his customary walk and when he returned he mounted the five flights of stairs to the apartment of Miss Fuller, where he resided. He then complained of fatigue and went to bed. A physician was called in and diagnosed his illness as pneumonia. Mr. Tilton's failure to retain food accentuated his weakness, but at no time did he realize the seriousness of his malady. Only last night he asked for his malady. Only last night he asked for Lord Lytton's "Pausanias," and attempted to read, but he soon dropped the book and sank into a peaceful sleep, from which practically he never awoke.

A score of friends who heard of Mr. Tilton's illness called to inquire, but they were not admitted to see him.

No definate arrangements regarding the funeral have yet been made, except that the service will be held Monday in the American church. Mr. Tilton's children in America will decide whether his body will be interred in Paris or shipped to the United States.
